

Evie Clair was a top 10 finalist on Season 12 of NBC's America's Got Talent as a singer, songwriter and pianist. She grew up on the stage winning her first professional role at the Hale Theater in Gilbert, Arizona at age 8. Her first full album, released at age 14, hit the pop charts at #49 with 1.2 million streams just after her original song was featured in a movie soundtrack. A viral video of her first AGT performance was recognized as having the 3rd highest view count on YouTube world wide for 2018 and now has 235 Million views. After headlining her first concert in New York with The Village People and Angelica Hale, Delta Airlines featured Evie's single, Auld Lang Syne, in their holiday commercial about kindness and she was the headliner for a 72-show run in Reno. She then began touring to sold out audiences with the #1 selling Broadway magician - Adam Trent. Evie continues to write and release new, original music, perform worldwide in concerts and music festivals, keep up with her social media fans and speak for live events and church youth groups. She is a champion in the fight against cancer after losing her father and she strives to live a life that would make him proud.
